UPDATES

CA Channel Islands, August 2014

As the outermost Channel Island, San Miguel is a special place. Not often dived, its nutrient-rich waters support an abundance of sea life unique to San Miguel Island. The club's low price of $525 includes all meals, snacks, diving, and air refills. We need 25 divers to secure a full-boat Vision charter and have 7 signups now with 18 spots left to fill. Please go to the Rainbow Divers website today to reserve your spot on this annual favorite.

San Diego, May 2014

Join us for a weekend of diving the wrecks and kelp beds of San Diego with Pacific Swann, a six-passenger commercial dive boat located in Mission Bay, central to many popular locations. San Diego is known for many dive sites, ranging from a variety of wrecks, kelp forests, canyons, and rock outcroppings. Check out this new destination for Northern California Rainbow Divers!

Diving For Life: Bonaire, September 2014

Captain Don's Habitat is an oceanfront resort set among tropical gardens and native landscaping. Their motto, "Diving Freedom, 24 hours a day, 365 days a year", makes it an ideal location for DFL 2014. Bonaire continues to win awards internationally for the best diving destination and therefore is known as "Divers' Paradise". Come join this annual SCUBA jamboree, a long-time favorite for festive diving among friends while supporting health-related charities at the same time!

The February edition of the club's Buddy Line newsletter is available! Read about our upcoming dive expeditions to San Miguel and the northern Channel Islands this summer, as well as a new club destination, San Diego wrecks and reefs. Plus hear all about some club members' recent adventures swimming with charismatic megafauna: the sailfish of Mexico and the Atlantic Humpback whales in Dominican Republic.
